SLOW-FRIED FRENCH FRIES

There are certain  that are better when not made at home, like . To achieve golden-brown perfection, you have to fry them twice: first at a low temperature, to poach them; then at a high heat, to crisp them up. Very tasty, very much a pain in the neck. A few years back, I read about how French chef Joel Robuchon supposedly does it at his house: He puts  in a pot of cold , turns on the heat, and lets them go. It sounds too simple to work. But as the temperature rises, the  cook from the outer layer in until the fries are wonderfully crunchy outside and creamy in the center. You'll never make fries any other way- even if you've never made them before.
