Dear Parent,

Every time your child reads a text, 50 to 75 percent of the words he or she encounters are from the Dolch Sight Word List. The Dolch Sight Word List is a core group of 220 common words that are represented frequently in reading material. Children need extra practice learning these words, many of which can't be represented by simple pictures. Often, these sight words do not follow regular spelling rules and cannot be "sounded out." Learning to immediately recognize these words "at sight" is a critical skill for fluent reading.

The Complete Book of Sight Words introduces all 220 Dolch sight words, divided into four levels of increasing difficulty. The book presents and then reinforces each word in a way that promotes understanding and retention. Children ages five through eight will find memorizing these words both simple and fun. The book's entertaining activities offer lots of practice with tracing and writing, while word puzzles and games provide an extra challenge. Your child can color the pictures, laugh at the funny characters, and enjoy learning about sight words.

Zack could not think of anything fun to do. He wanted to try something new. He decided to bake a pie that he could eat.

Then, his friend Josh came over with a new ball. The boys went outside to play with it. Zack forgot there was a pie baking in the oven.

"I'm so hungry, I could eat a pie," Josh said.

"There is a pie in the oven!" Zack said. The boys went inside. The pie was burned. There was nothing they could do.

I always have my birthday party at home. This year, I wanted to have it someplace new.

"We are going somewhere different," my family said. "You are going to have a great time."

We all got into the car. "Where are we going?" I asked. "It's a surprise," they said. "You have to close your eyes."

"Are we there yet?" I asked. "You have to be patient!" they said.

After a long drive, the car stopped. "We're at the beach!" I said. We all jumped into the water.

"None of our neighbors have a kitten," I said. "She must be lost." When we looked up again, the kitten was gone.

Later that day, we saw her again. She was sleeping on top of our car.

"I saw a sign about a lost kitten at our bus stop," my dad said.

The sign had a picture of a kitten. It looked just like the kitten we saw!

We called the owners of the kitten. They came to pick her up at our house.

Dear Jake,
I can't wait to get together this weekend. I've planned lots of fun things for us to do together. We can play in the backyard together. I like to gather up all the leaves and make a big pile. together we can make the biggest pile ever! See you soon!
Sincerely,
Steve

Dear Steve,
We always have fun when we're together. My dad and I will ride together on the train to get to your house. We will play games together to pass the time. I'll bring my basketball with me. Maybe we can get together a group to play basketball. I'm excited to spend time together.
Sincerely,
Jake

We're going to the library today. I need to get an early start. My friend will pick me up at eight o'clock. We need to work on a project for school.

I will pick out about eight books for us to read. It's going to be a lot of work. We won't finish the whole project today, but we will get a good start!

The bowl is very full.

A maze puzzle with star-shaped nodes. The nodes are labeled 'hold' or 'EXIT'. A path is drawn through the maze, starting from a 'hold' node at the top left, passing through several other 'hold' nodes, and ending at an 'EXIT' node at the bottom center. The path is a continuous line that navigates through the maze's corridors.

Once upon a time, there was a very funny boy. He liked to do tricks and make people laugh. People liked to call him "the Joker." His magic bag was full of all his tricks. He never let anyone else hold his magic bag.

He had so many tricks that his bag got too full. It was too heavy for the boy to hold. He put his bag upon a horse. He decided to call his horse "Trick Trot," Trick Trot and the Joker were good at making people laugh.
